California heart exchange success

Dr. Norman E. Shumway, left, who led a 15-member team who performed America's first adult cardiac transplant Saturday, tells a news conference at Stanford University, "We have reached first base." Mike Kasperak, a 54-year-old steel worker, was alive and well Sunday after a heart transplant Saturday. Kasperak's wife, Fern, said before the operation, "Go ahead, don't waste any time. I want you alive and with me."

The heart used in this country's first transplant came from the body of Mrs. Virginia Mae White, 43, of Santa Clara, Calif., who suffered a massive brain hemorrhage late Friday. Mrs. White was the mother of two children.

Steel worker, 54, 'doing quite well'

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Mike Kasperak, equipped with a donor heart, "is really doing quite well at the present time," Dr. Norman E. Shumway said Sunday afternoon.

Shumway headed a team of surgeons at Stanford University, which removed the failing heart of the 54-year-old steel worker Saturday night, replacing it with the heart of a 43-year-old housewife.

The donor, Mrs. Virginia White, had died of a stroke about two hours earlier.

Dr. Shumway, speaking at a crowded news conference in a Stanford School of Medicine classroom, stressed that despite encouraging signs, "there is no way at this time to term the episode a success."

Kasperak is fully conscious, Dr. Shumway said, and responding well to instructions. He cannot talk because he has a tube in his throat to aid his breathing.

But Kasperak knows he has a new heart.

Dr. Shumway said blood pressure, pulse and temperature are "good."

He is worried because the donor heart is only about one-third the size Kasperak's heart was. The old heart had been enlarged by irreversible disease. He weighs 144 pounds. Mrs. White weighed 120 pounds.

Shumway, smiling, confidently after the 4½-hour operation, the fourth human heart transplant in history, said the patient was being watched every minute and would be kept in the hospital for months under observation.

He said the heart is performing well and pumping sufficient blood for its new owner.

First base

"The real work begins now," Shumway said. "We have just reached first base."

The operation began at 5 p.m. and was concluded about 9:30 p.m.

Shumway, 44, who developed the transplant technique in seven years of experimental work with dogs, said Kasperak's condition will be considered critical for the next several weeks, during which the new heart must be protected against rejection by the body it serves.

Rejection arises from the body's natural immune reaction against any foreign object—disease germs or implanted organs.

Kasperak suffered from a chronic heart infection that forced his retirement 18 months ago from a job with Laughlin Steel Corp. of Cleveland, Ohio, where he had worked for 30 years.

His disease, chronic viral myocarditis, was far advanced and irreversible. He was dying. His heart muscle was turning into fibrous tissue that wouldn't pump blood.

Kasperak told his wife, Fern, he wanted the transplant operation offered by Dr. Shumway "if a suitable donor turned up."

"Don't waste time"

"Go ahead, don't waste any time," Mrs. Kasperak said. "I want you alive and with me."

The donor, Mrs. White, who had never been seriously ill, suffered a massive brain hemorrhage at 6 p.m. Friday, the night after she and her husband, Bill, celebrated their 22nd wedding anniversary.

She went into a coma and was kept alive with artificial respiration.

The Whites' family doctor, Dr. Martin Robinson of the San Jose Medical Clinic, told Bill there was no hope.

White recalled a conversation about heart transplant operations he and Virginia had a week ago with friends.

Blaiberg is fine, sees wife

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Dr. Philip Blaiberg, in "very satisfactory" condition with his transplanted heart, saw his wife Sunday for the first time since his operation and chatted five minutes with her through a glass door.

"He was looking too wonderful for words," said Eileen Blaiberg, "He joked all the time and was very talkative." She said her husband kept her waiting a few minutes to wash and shave to "look his best."

Mrs. Blaiberg went through the customary sterilization process for doctors about to enter an operating room. She donned a mask, gown, special boots and gloves.

But unlike Mrs. Louis Washkansky, wife of the first human heart transplant patient, Mrs. Blaiberg was not permitted to sit near her husband, who received his transplant heart Tuesday. She said she could hear perfectly through the glass door that separated them.

Washkansky died last month of a lung infection after living 18 days with a transplanted heart. Doctors do not know where he picked up the infection but clearly were taking no chances that Mrs. Blaiberg might pass on any infection to her husband, the third heart recipient.

Mrs. Blaiberg said she expects to see her husband through the glass door daily for the next few days until she is allowed to go to his bedside.

A bulletin from Groote Schuur Hospital said the 58-year-old retired dentist remained in "very satisfactory" condition, was very pleased to see his wife and "his voice was clear and strong."

200 enemy forces are killed

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces opened a series of sharp clashes in South Vietnam's northern provinces over the weekend but were beaten off by U.S. and South Vietnamese forces. The U.S. Command reported more than 200 Communist killed.

Mixed forces of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong guerrillas have been concentrating heavily in the northern zone since the end of the New Year's truce. Large numbers of North Vietnamese regulars have infiltrated the northern zones while U.S. intelligence reports say a major force is poised just above the demilitarized zone.

The U.S. Command said 51 enemy were slain. Marine losses were 16 killed and 48 wounded, while the casualties among the government troops were reported light.

Spectacular crash involves four cars

By JIM SHAFER
Pocono Record Reporter

MOUNT POCONO — Monroe County could have had its first highway fatality or fatalities in 1968, Sunday at 5:30 p.m. when four cars were involved in a weird accident on Rt. 611, near the entrance of Pocono Mountain Airport.

Six persons were taken to the General Hospital of Monroe County where four were admitted, one transferred to a hospital in Scranton, and one was treated and released. None were from Monroe County.

A stationwagon driven by Mrs. Madeline G. Cole, 41, of Edison, N.J., was traveling south on Rt. 611 when she ran off the right side of the highway.

As she attempted to bring the vehicle back on the highway, the car struck some ice, she lost control and the car skidded sideways onto the highway and into the path of a car driven north by Ray Reichert, 58, of Moscow R.D. 3.

The force of the crash threw Mrs. Reichert into the highway, and ripped away the left rear section of the Cole stationwagon. A gas line in the Reichert car was ruptured and gasoline started burning. Reichert was removed from the burning car.

A third car, driven by Kenneth W. Kern, 62, of West Pritton, stopped to avoid striking Mrs. Reichert as she lay on the highway and he was struck from behind by a car driven by Michael A. Reistetter, 18, of Brooklyn, N.Y.

Taken to the hospital were Mrs. Cole, her son, Peter, 18, and a friend, William Rodek, 18, all of Edison, N.J.; Ray Reichert and his wife.

All but Mrs. Reichert were admitted and listed in good condition.

Taken to Scranton

Mrs. Reichert was transferred to a hospital in Scranton. Reistetter was treated and released.

Mount Pocono firemen were called to the scene and in temperatures that were below zero, doused fire in Reichert's car.

When the first two vehicles collided, the gas tank from the stationwagon was ripped out and gasoline dumped over the highway.

"Why that didn't catch fire, I'll never know," an unidentified fireman, covered with ice, said at the scene.

The highway was a large patch of ice and police blocked traffic for more than an hour and a half in the area of the crash.

No confirmation, however

Ho Chi Minh reported dead

SAIGON (AP) — A South Vietnamese newspaper said Sunday it had learned from "special sources" that North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh, 77, died two weeks ago.

Surveyor faces tough task

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A change of scientific minds probably will force Surveyor 7 into two tricky maneuvers, a spokesman said Sunday as the last unmanned U.S. lunar lander streaked toward the smallest and roughest target yet.

The first of the two planned course changes was scheduled for late Sunday afternoon, the second Monday night.

Flight controllers at Jet Propulsion Laboratory planned to steer the experiment-loaded spacecraft closer to the crater Tycho, near the south-central edge of the lunar disk.

The report could not be confirmed here or in other world capitals. Radio Hanoi carried no mention of it.

In London, British diplomats said they did not take the report seriously. The U.S. Embassy in Saigon and the State Department in Washington said they had no information on the report.

In New Delhi, the Indian government, which has an envoy in Hanoi, said: "We have had no report to confirm this."

The Vietnamese - language newspaper Cong Chung, a relative newcomer among Saigon's 30 or so news publications, quoted its sources as saying Ho died of a combination of a heart disease and tuberculosis at 4 p.m. Dec. 26 in a village in Ha Tay Province, south of Hanoi.

It added that an analysis of Ho's recent speeches and messages as broadcast by Hanoi were not in his usual — sometimes poetic — style, indicating they were composed by someone else.

There have been scattered reports in the past that Ho had been ailing. One, filed by a Norwegian correspondent from Hanoi in November, said he was too ill to go to Moscow for the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution in early November.

As late as Christmas Day, Hanoi's official Vietnam News Agency carried a dispatch saying that Ho is "strong and healthy" and had attended a mass meeting. It did not say when the meeting was held but it was believed to have taken place sometime within the two weeks previous.

Monitors of North Vietnamese broadcasts in Tokyo reported hearing nothing to indicate Ho had died. They said a broadcast by All India Radio from New Delhi Saturday reported Ho met in Hanoi "some days ago" with the foreign minister of Cambodia. A radio spokesman said he was unable to specify the date. Hanoi broadcasts Dec. 31 carried Ho's New Year's message to his people and a message to those in the United States who oppose the U.S. role in Vietnam.

Cong Chung said an analysis of the text of a speech attributed to Ho on Dec. 24, the 23rd anniversary of the North Vietnamese army, showed that it contained words Ho had never used in previous speeches.

It added that a New Year's greeting from Ho, written in the form of a poem, was not in Ho's usual style.

"The poem did not belong to Ho Chi Minh," the paper said. "Ho's poems are always very simple like popular songs, but the New Year's poem was composed in a new style."

Ho's poetry is widely known in Vietnam.

The newspaper contended there has been no announcement from Hanoi of Ho's death.

Humphrey gets polite greeting

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Kenyans gave Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey a polite but unenthusiastic welcome Sunday after he cut short a 24-hour visit to the neighboring Somali Republic on the basis of advance U.S. security reports of trouble that never materialized.

As it turned out, he got the friendliest reception there of his nine-nation African tour.

When he arrived in Nairobi 18 hours ahead of schedule, police already had arrested six Kenyans who planned to demonstrate against him at the airport. They carried anti-U.S. banners. The police were braced for any further trouble in his 36-hour stay in Kenya.

The reception here was dull in contrast to the thousands of Somalis who lined the streets of Mogadishu, their capital, to cheer and clap for Humphrey.

There were only about 1,500 persons at Nairobi's airport.

1967 record year for U.S. passports

WASHINGTON (AP) — More Americans than ever before—an estimated 1,690,000—got passports in 1967, State Department officials said Sunday.

The latest passport figures indicate also a much higher rate of increase in passports issued for travel by government officials than for the public generally, although the official total remains only a small fraction of the over-all.

Passports issued for U.S. military dependents going overseas did not share in the general increase. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has been carrying out a vigorous program for holding down the dollar outflow from military assignments abroad.

In all, there are about 4,500,000 valid passports now in Americans' hands.

The question of American travel to foreign lands has come under new attention since President Johnson's Jan. 1 call for a cutback in nonessential trips as part of his program to trim the U.S. balance-of-payments deficit.

The administration now is considering mandatory curbs on American tourist spending abroad. In 1965 Johnson asked for voluntary restraint, saying: "Foreign travel should be encouraged when we can afford it, but not while our payments position remains urgent."

Passport statistics are not an actual head count of the number of foreign trips but they give a general indication of travel volume. According to the latest available figures:

—The number of passports issued or renewed by the State Department in the calendar year ended Dec. 31 was an estimated 1,690,000 and the count for fiscal year 1967 ended June 30, 1967, was 1,624,940—an 11.7-per cent rise over 1966 and 28.2 per cent above the 1,267,750 for fiscal 1965.

—The number of official passports—those used mainly by executive branch employees and congressmen on official business—rose to approximately 133,500 in fiscal 1967—a 26.6-per cent increase during the year and 64.5 per cent above the 87,200 in 1965.

—Passports for U.S. military dependents actually went down slightly from 1965 to 1967. Their number was approximately 81,000 in fiscal 1965, 75,500 in 1966 and 77,300 last year.

The State Department officials did not have an exact breakdown of where American tourists went in 1967, but estimated about 75 per cent traveled to Western Europe.

Johnson's new program aims at holding down U.S. travel outside the western hemisphere.

Available authorities did not have an immediate response as to just how foreign travel by U.S. officials might be cut back, except to say that this presumably would be accomplished through government budget controls.

Woltjen fund established

NEWFOUNDLAND — The Roger A. Woltjen Memorial Scholarship Fund, created last week in memory of their son by Marvin and Elva Woltjen, will not only honor the late Pike County lawyer, but will each year aid a Greene, Dreher or Sterling Township student in furthering his or her education.

The fund, which sets aside $500 each year, will be administered by Mr. and Mrs. Woltjen as first trustees. It provides that the grant may be made to the same student for more than one year, or another student each year, as the Woltjens see fit.

The man in whose honor and memory the scholarship fund was created died on September 6, 1966. Although his work kept him in Milford and that area of Pike County, he was most interested in the Newfoundland area in which he had been born and where he spent his youth.

Born in Panther

Roger Woltjen was born in Panther, Pike County, on March 13, 1923, and was educated in the Greene - Dreher School in Newfoundland. He had attended Dickinson College, Carlisle, for one year when he enlisted in the United States Navy during World War II. He was commissioned and served in China and India.

Upon his honorable discharge from the Navy, he entered the University of Pennsylvania, from which he was graduated in 1947. He entered Harvard Law School in 1948, and was graduated in 1950, and was admitted to the Wayne County Bar Association during that same year.

It was in 1953 that he moved to Milford, where he practiced law as a partner in the firm of Woltjen and Kayton. Active in community and church activities, he was an elder of the Presbyterian Church of Milford.

He was solicitor for the Borough of Milford, and for the Commissioners of Pike County, and had served for two years as law clerk to the then Chief Justice of the Superior Court of Pennsylvania, Chester H. Rhoades of Stroudsburg.

His parents have searched for a fitting memorial for their son, and, long interested in education, decided that a scholarship which will assist a young person in the two Wayne County townships or the Pike County area.

Mr. Woltjen, who retired from his business, the Woltjen Lumber Company, only recently, is president of the First National Bank of Newfoundland and a member and past president of the Newfoundland Rotary Club.

Maids get more, what about cops?

We are almost always pleased when our elected officials agree to raise the salaries of non-executives in government.

It was cheering, for example, to hear the other day that the meter maids who patrol Stroudsburg's business section were getting a raise of 25 cents an hour. We hope it came in time to provide them some warmth as they patrolled through the coldest spell of the year.

As far as we are concerned the young women who check the status of parking meters are doing a good job and deserve their increase to approximately $1.75 per hour. Their businesslike attitude is impressive and their pleasant but firm response to those with abills who appear 30 seconds too late to their "rented" space, is a borough asset.

Perhaps their persistence has not significantly alleviated the parking bind on busy shopping days but we believe their attention to duty has produced an income in fines that more than justifies their position.

And we must hope that their presence is teaching us to hustle our downtown business so that more parkers will be able to find space more consistently.

A comment on the 16 per cent pay boost given the meter maids must include a wonder of what sort of increase the Council plans for the members of the male police force which does not look as cute in its uniforms but has considerably more responsibility in an increasingly diversified job.

Legislature sets extravagant example

While an improved financial status for the rank and file of public service cheers us, an improved status for those with the power to vote it themselves tends to have an opposite effect.

Sometimes this is subverted by logic (We must pay our legislators and administrators enough to attract some conscientious and wise people) but generally speaking those with the power to set their own terms of employment do all right while they are studiously tougher in allocating taxpayer money for others.

The present state legislature in its 1967 term blew up a literal thousand dollar storm in a piggy bank by passing a law to increase its pension base from $6,000 to $7,200. This is technically fair enough since it increases the pension by the amount of the last salary increase that the lawmakers voted for themselves in 1965.

The trouble that led to a veto from the governor after screams of anguish from many sides was the pro-rata increase voted for legislative officers. Robert Fleming, president pro-tem of the Senate, would have qualified for a $50,000 annual pension in 1970.

This is a contributory pension plan but even at that is pegged considerably higher than most private plans. What's more any comment concerning pensions for legislators must note that it is invariably a part-time job for a businessman (usually a lawyer). He not only has a healthy outside income but is likely never to be completely cut off from the income of his business or office.

In short, few of us would seem to need pension plans less than legislators and yet the lawmakers find it impossible to resist the opportunity to compound their security.

Their protection is the safety-in-numbers that comes with near-unanimous votes on such amendments. The voters aren't going to turn all the "rascals" out at the next election. Still, it fosters a general lack of confidence in a body that should bend backwards to set a good example of leadership rather than press the privileges of rank.

A Horrible Accident!

Having noticed that his Scottish guide usually went bareheaded in all sorts of weather, the London sportsman made him a gift of a fur cap, the kind that has heavy ear flaps for extra warmth. On his next visit to the hunting lodge, in the middle of the winter in the Highlands, he asked the old Scot how he liked the cap.

"Have not worn it since the accident," was the gloomy reply.

"What accident?" his benefactor queried.

"Jack McLeod offered to buy me a drink," sighed the guide, "and I didn't hear him."

The minister of the dog approached angrily.

"Yes," said the preacher, "I could see him wagging his tail, but he wasn't coming at me with that end."

Harris survey

LBJ now holds edge on four GOP rivals

BY LOUIS HARRIS

Only two months after a Harris Survey showed that all four of the leading Republican presidential contenders could defeat President Johnson, a special survey now shows Johnson riding a new crest of popularity that would make him the favorite if the election were held now.

With 10 months still to go before the election, these results on the heels of rising support for Administration Vietnam policies perhaps are illustrative of the unstable and volatile nature of support for the President. Rarely, if ever before, have the political fortunes of an incumbent Chief Executive fluctuated so wildly from month to month.

Here are the key findings of a carefully drawn cross section of 2,003 households:

ONE — Although Gov. Nelson Rockefeller ties Johnson 43 to 43 in a two-way race, when former Gov. George Wallace is added to the list the President takes the lead over the New York Republican 41 to 37, with Wallace receiving 12. In October, Rockefeller led Johnson by 52 to 35.

TWO — Against former Vice President Richard Nixon, Johnson has now opened up a 50 to 41 edge. This represents a three-point gain for the President in three weeks and a nine-point rise in two months.

THREE — Johnson runs ahead of Gov. George Romney by 49 to 36, up two points in three weeks and 12 points in eight weeks.

FOUR — Gov. Ronald Reagan trails the President 37 to 51, a slippage of nine points in eight weeks for the California Republican.

Although he runs behind the President for the first time in three months, Rockefeller nonetheless continues to be the strongest Republican contender. The results indicate that Wallace is gradually picking up strength. With the undecided vote out, Wallace's indicated vote today would be 14 of the electorate nationwide. He is now a clear second in the South, moving up on Johnson. However, the votes the Alabamian would receive in the South are mainly those which went for Barry Goldwater in 1964. The net effect of his candidacy would be to take votes away from any Republican, including moderates.

By comparing the Johnson vote today with last October, the key swing areas in the upcoming election begin to emerge. On a regional basis, the Midwest and the West are most susceptible to change. The upper-income and college-educated groups show the greatest changes and are sensitive both to the war in Vietnam and the issues of racial peace and progress at home.

The big cities, edgy over the prospect of racial turmoil, are also pivotal. Voters who are Catholics, largely committed to see the war through in Vietnam, are also subject to wide swings. Finally, young people under 35, also sensitive to the race and war issues, will be a major battleground.

Fundamentally, these latest results point up the tenuous hold of the Democratic Party on its former bastions in the big cities, among Catholic voters and in the South. However, the emerging affluent segment of the vote, represented by the college-educated and young people, could be even more important in the final outcome.

All in all, as much as one voter in three has been shaken loose from his traditional political moorings. This basic fact of political life in 1968, along with the volatile nature of Johnson's own popularity and the Wallace candidacy, bid fair to make this election one of the most unpredictable in many years.

Here are the latest standings compared with those in October:

The Allen-Scott Report

President pushed for gold action

WASHINGTON—President Johnson is being caustically told to either put up or shut up on taking decisive action to cope with the alarming steadily dwindling U. S. gold reserve.

Although this crucial national asset sagged to $24 billion late last month (some $10 billion less than the total 10 years ago), and the President has repeatedly voiced the need to eliminate the so-called "gold cover" of the dollar which is tying up $10.6 billion of the reserve, he has yet to do anything concrete about it.

Graphically illustrative of the administration's procrastinating is the fact that a bill to remove the gold cover has been pending for more than six months in the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

Introduced last June by Senator Vance Hartke, D-Ind., influential member of the Finance Committee, the measure has been completely ignored by the White House and Treasury. They haven't lifted a finger to push it—although they now say they will seek such legislation in the impending session of Congress on the ground that "one way to counter speculation in gold is to remove the gold cover on the dollar."

Pointing out that he offered his bill "with the full knowledge of Treasury Secretary Fowler," Hartke added sardonically, "I shall welcome administration support of it, even though belated."

It is Hartke's contention, supported by Federal Reserve Chairman William McChesney Martin and many other leading authorities, that the existing 25 per cent gold backing for the dollar is meaningless, as individuals cannot redeem currency for gold.

"For decades," said Hartke, "the law has required us to keep enough gold in our vaults to cover 25 per cent of the value of Federal Reserve notes. Today that is no more useful for our needs than for an individual to hide his money in a mattress. If we stop tying our Federal Reserve currency to gold, we will immediately provide our country with greater mobility in world trade and put the brakes on gold speculation."

REAL DOLLAR BACKING — Senator Hartke is convinced Congress will readily repeal this absolute requirement if the administration throws weight behind it.

This view is based on soundings he has taken among key leaders of both parties in the House and Senate. They are ready to act if the President will take a forceful lead. What, if anything, is done is entirely up to the administration.

In effect, Hartke is bluntly telling the White House to put its votes where its mouth is.

AGAINST DE GAULLE—Representative Wilbur Mills, D-Wis., member powerful chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, is on forceful notice that a determined effort will be made to secure consideration by his group of legislation cracking down on President de Gaulle.

Representative Vernon Thomson, R-Wis., member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, has notified Mills that immediately upon reconvening of Congress the former Wisconsin governor will reintroduce his resolution calling on the President to "take such steps as may be necessary to require the Republic of France to make full and prompt settlement of its defaulted World War I debts" — now totaling nearly $7 billion.

This will be the third successive session that Thomson has sponsored this measure. This time he is determined that the Ways and Means Committee hold hearings, and that the House have a chance to vote.

PREDICTIONS—Representative Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., potent chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, will reverse his opposition to the President's demand for a tax increase and will report out a bill to the House by April 1. The measure will differ in important aspects from what the President has been urging, but it is now certain there will be a hike in federal taxes as of January 1. The tragic death of Prime Minister Harold Holt will mean that Australia will follow Britain and devalue its currency. Holt strongly opposed that and was able to get his way, even though most of his cabinet members favored devaluation.

The new space budget being compiled by President Johnson will be the smallest since 1961. It will be considerably less than the $4.59 billion voted by Congress last year. Probable figure will be around $4 billion. Colleagues of Senator Joseph Clark, D-Pa., are predicting he will be more hawkish after he returns from touring Southeast Asia, including Vietnam. Up to now, Clark has been a dove, but his colleagues are convinced he will shift position as a result of his trip. They attribute this to Clark's being up for re-election this year and admittedly facing a difficult contest. He is being accompanied on the junket by his new wife.

Convention cities

(Roscoe Drummond is on vacation. Today's column is by Tom Littlewood, Washington correspondent for the Chicago Sun-Times.)

BY TOM LITTLEWOOD

WASHINGTON — The voter who follows the national conventions on his television screen absorbs a succession of fleeting impressions. Although every politician has pet theories, little more is known today than in the past about what effect, if any, the locations of the conventions have on the parties and the public-at-large.

If, as has been duly observed, the medium is indeed the message, there are reasons to suggest that in these troubled times the selection of Miami Beach for the Republicans and Chicago for the Democrats might be of more than ordinary importance. Each is a metropolitan area under social stress, currently aroused by the incidence of criminal assaults.

In the television era, events that occur offstage contribute to the image-forming process. And it is equally evident that, unlike their elders, many among the television-conditioned younger generation of voters do not yet have in their heads clear pictures of the political parties.

At the very least these young people cannot help but react in some unpredictable way to the contrasts between the two settings this summer.

Miami's tinsel

To most Americans, Miami Beach speaks of a gaudy tinsel display of affluence, conspicuous consumption at its least extreme. During the countless idle spells at a convention, the networks endeavor to sustain the tempo artificially with their pre-filmed sidelights. In Miami, regardless of the conditions across the causeways in the have-not neighborhoods, the cameras can be soothingly diverted by the bikinis around the pool at the Fontainebleau.

For the other party, President Johnson's choice of the lush city of the big shoulders surprised many Democrats. But Chicago has been the scene of several of the most meaningful conventions throughout the social evolution of the nation. Lincoln was nominated there in 1860. Bryan in 1896. Roosevelt in 1952.

Washington pundits sometimes forget the extent to which Mid-western attitudes have influenced the course of American history. In 1876 — after 1860 the most fateful election for the American Negro — the parties held their conventions in two beer-drinking, Mid-western, riverfront cities: St. Louis and Cincinnati. The schizophrenic national attitude about race resembled today's. Shortly thereafter, the national government handed the "Negro problem" back to the South, with consequences that continued for the better part of a century.

But why would the President choose a city with almost one million Negroes in this period of urban tension? The biggest reason must be Mayor Richard J. Daley, who is constantly justifying his reputation as the last of the machine bosses. Mr. Johnson knows he can trust and depend on him.

Not with young Kennedys

Daley is a party regular who has no stomach for the nibbling tactics that Senator Robert F. Kennedy has been sporadically testing. Although the mayor was proud to have played a crucial role in the nomination and election of the first Catholic President, it is not generally understood that the pre-convention arrangements with Daley were left to the candidate's father Joseph P. Kennedy, who handled them personally.

There is no conceivable way Daley can avoid militant leftists converging on Chicago from across the country in August. It is not far-fetched to ponder what the reaction would be if convoys of National Guard trucks were escorting delegates from their Loop hotels to the International Amphitheater.

The hall is situated between the two Negro ghettos on the South and West Sides. For many years a nearby railroad embankment has stood as a barrier separating the black belt and the Irish who live around the stockyards.

There is obviously a new awareness in the White House that Barry Goldwater's crime-in-the-streets issue had a long fuse and might explode in their faces in 1968. If the impression can be created that the August turbulence in Chicago is being fomented by sinister revolutionaries, it could be a timely opportunity for the Democrats to put down the demonstrators with a strong — perhaps even a brutal — show of force, for the edification of the television audience.

Don MacLean

Neck of the turtle

I'm out of step with the times. Yesterday from an Allentown, Pa., department store, I received an invitation to a showing of new fashions "For the Emancipated Male!" A brief list of what is to be shown was included, along with drawings:

The skintrouser: From the sketch this seems to be a cute little number with trousers which have a ruffled bodice! (Darling.)

The Beaded Evening Formal: A tuxedo, beaded, which presumably comes in various colors. (Sweet.)

An At-Home Playsuit: Long sleeves, flaring collar with plunging neckline and skintrousers. (Adorable.)

The invitation doesn't say anything about I, but I should hope that these new male fashions would come with the proper accessories, such as matching gloves, earrings and vinyl purses.

None of this surprises me, though. We should have realized that the women planned to do this to us back when they first started dressing like men.

Early heart trouble

Can a person have a form of heart trouble and not be aware of it. I am 25 years old and have been having chest pains for three or four years. My doctor says "my heart is all right." Can a doctor really be sure without an electrocardiogram?

Mrs. M. K., West Virginia

Dear Mrs. K.: It is difficult to believe that anyone at the age of 25 could have a form of heart trouble without having signs or symptoms to suggest such a condition.

The fact that you have been having chest pains for three or four years has made you anxious about them, but it does not necessarily mean that you have heart trouble. There are many, many reasons for pains in the chest completely unrelated to the heart.

You have had this discomfort for years and by now it might be assumed that if a heart condition were present you would have other symptoms that would incapacitate you.

Your fears have persisted even though your doctor assured you that your heart was "all right." When does one really believe his doctor?

Does not the fact that you function normally show that your doctor's clinical judgment is correct. Do you believe that your doctor would deprive you of hospitalization and treatment if there were any real suggestion that you have heart trouble?

Yes, a physician can be sure that a patient's heart is normal without an electrocardiogram, or EKG. Before these machines, were available the training of the physician, his knowledge and clinical judgment were usually sufficient to make the diagnosis.

Unless I am mistaken even if an EKG was taken and this was found to be normal you still would be frightened and fearful about a "heart condition" that does not exist.

Perhaps you should discuss this with your doctor and he may suggest a psychological interview that will help to explain the fears that have been unnecessarily distressing you.

Dr. Coleman welcomes letters from readers, and, while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

Gouldsboro firm honored for delivery of equipment

GOULDSBORO — The Industrial Transformer Corp. has been honored by the General Electric Co. for exceptional performance in speedy delivery of transformers for a sonar system aboard a Navy destroyer.

A vendor's "Target-Zero Defects" award was accepted by Glenn B. Heffler and James B. Smith of Industrial Transformer on behalf of the firm's employees and management. It was presented by Frank J. Kantak, manager of purchasing for GE's Heavy Military Electronics Dept., Syracuse, N. Y., in ceremonies at Gouldsboro. The Gouldsboro firm is a subsidiary of Electro Networks, Inc., Caledonia, N. Y.

Kantak said that his department awarded a subcontract to Industrial Transformer for four transformers, on which normal delivery would have been six months. But General Electric asked for special effort. "We told them to do what they could to get the job done faster because the Navy really needed the equipment," Kantak said.

Eight weeks

Industrial Transformer shipped the first two units in eight weeks, and the others soon after. All have been sent to the destroyer USS Wilkinson, which is conducting technical evaluations of the sonar system at sea.

Kantak explained that the transformers are improved models to replace existing transformers aboard the destroyer. They provide electrical power to drive transducers, which are the heart of a sonar system.

Target-Zero Defects seeks to improve product quality by emphasizing elimination of human error. The Heavy Military Electronics Department cites unusual contributions by suppliers that shorten schedules, reduce costs or enhance reliability. The department designs and builds radar and sonar systems and equipment and provides related services for the armed forces.

The first Target-Zero Defects award given to a supplier or subcontractor by the department went to Electro Networks, Inc., in the spring of 1968.

Mildred Sebring, Gouldsboro, an employee of Industrial Transformer Corp., explains her work to Navy Lt. George T. Rodriguez during plant tour. Lt. Rodriguez and officials of the General Electric Heavy Military Electronics Department presented a Target-Zero Defects award to the firm. Glenn B. Heffler of Moscow, an official of Industrial Transformer, is at right.

Industrial Transformer Corp. employs 158 people, placing it well within the United States Department of Commerce "small business" classification. The Heavy Military Electronics Department deals actively with 3,200 suppliers and subcontractors, more than 2,500 of which are small business firms. During 1967 about 85 per cent of the 27,000 purchase orders issued by the department went to such firms.

Two new items

Harnesses, high prices

DETROIT (AP) — All new automobiles rolling off assembly lines in the United States today had two new items: mandatory shoulder harnesses and higher prices.

Shoulder harnesses became mandatory Jan. 1 under new safety regulations.

Prices hikes generally range from $23 to $32, or what the automakers had been charging for the harnesses as optional equipment.

Apparently fearful some dealers might snip out the new harnesses, which strap across the driver's chest, General Motors Corp. sent a warning letter that if dealers remove harnesses for any reason, they and not the corporation will be liable in any lawsuit that might result.

In some instances the shoulder harness is as much as five feet long and is anchored to the roof rail above the driver's or passenger's side. A second strap, anchored to the floor, buckles into it. The harness goes diagonally across a person's chest.

A new type belt, called an inertia-reel system, already is being tested. It permits gradual movement, but locks solidly at the first fast movement, such as might occur in a collision.

Fixed harnesses prevent wearers reaching some interior items such as ash trays and radio knobs, and they also can lead to shoulder and neck irritation if worn too tight.

It is estimated that by 1990, more than half the world's population will be living in communities of at least 100,000 inhabitants.

State sales tax table available

STROUDSBURG — Pennsylvania taxpayers may use a state sales tax table as a guide in preparing their 1967 federal income tax returns. The table is included in the instruction booklet mailed to taxpayers, according to Seymour L. Friedman, district director of Internal Revenue.

The table is based on consumer spending patterns and shows the average amount of state sales tax paid by Pennsylvania residents. It may be used by taxpayers who itemize their federal income tax deductions.

State sales tax on automobiles purchased is not included in the table. Taxpayers who purchased an automobile may add deductible sales taxes paid on the purchase to the amount shown in the table.

Taxpayers who choose to do so, can deduct the actual amount of state sales taxes paid during the year.

Cy Barrett Says

Parade of understanding

DEAR CY:

As it is about Rose Bowl time, I have a personal relations question which has plagued me for several years while watching TV. There must be a lot of people helping put on the parade. How do they avoid being bossed around by the same people who run the town and everything else? I'll bet behind the Rose Bowl parade, is one big pressure group of bigwigs and financial geniuses working on little businessmen and workers to perform the dirty work.

FAIRFIELD

DEAR FAIRFIELD:

The Tournament of Roses parade is not only an extravaganza in color but in brilliant human relations. Consider that it takes an estimated 50,000 man hours of volunteer service to put Pasadena's New Year's day show on the street. In that parade are 60 floats, 225 equestrian units, 2,000 musicians and 20 marching bands. What flows through the TV screen so harmoniously is the work of 1,400 public-spirited men and women who form the Tournament of Roses association.

Looks like an awful lot of gas station personnel are working at the parade instead of their pumps. Now we know why so many sportsmen get gassed before getting to Pasadena on New Year's day.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

Many people have things which I admire but don't necessarily feel sad about not having. One exception is golden wedding anniversaries. But if 50 years seems like a golden number of years for people to have shared together — how about 67?

Especially when, like Mr. and Mrs. James Serfass, you are both still enjoying it so. I think she got a big kick out of his first day of fish as he did. And she is enjoying modern conveniences in a way that people now celebrating their 25th wedding anniversaries can never appreciate.

With five children, she used to do the washing with a scrub board and tub with water carried from the spring and heated on the old wood stove. She still remembers her first washing machine with fondness. And can appreciate a furnace after the years of carrying wood for the wood stoves.

But the thing she appreciates most is the friends she has made over the years. "There's not a person I know or any who have passed away that I wasn't on speaking terms with," she said, and recalled that when she began to take her orders in lodge work she took as her motto The Golden Rule, and her favorite hymn, "The Old Rugged Cross" and both have stood her in good stead.

Anyway, it cheered my day just to talk to her on the telephone after Anna Serfass had sent in the story. And speaking of a cheering telephone call, I heard about the one Helen Harris made on New Year's Day to her sister-in-law in Florida. After they had exchanged New Year's greetings, Helen began to think it didn't sound quite like Addie.

It wasn't. It was Henrietta Baldwin whose Florida number Helen had called by mistake!

Mr. and Mrs. James Serfass

After 67 years, couple enjoy living

Saylorsburg — Mr. and Mrs. James Serfass of Saylorsburg have celebrated their 67th wedding anniversary, but that didn't keep Mrs. Serfass from attending many of the holiday parties or Mr. Serfass from catching his limit of fish on the first day of fishing season this year.

They were married Dec. 22 in 1900 at the home of the bride's parents, the late James and Catherine Newhart of Saylorsburg with the late Rev. C. W. T. Strausser officiating.

The anniversary recalled one of the most memorable occasions of their life—their 50th wedding anniversary. They celebrated with 300 friends and relatives. The guests included every one of the 12 members of their original wedding party, including the minister, who were seated at the table with the honored couple.

Today only three of the 12 survive. Mrs. Serfass's sister, Mrs. Rosa Butts who was the organist; and Mrs. Vera Newhart Correll and Mrs. Pearl Mongie Faulstich of Easton, who were flower girls.

However, the Serfasses are not only very much living but are still "living it up" and enjoying it.

Mr. Serfass, who is 86 years old, recalled some of the highlights of this past year. One was the annual Grunzow dinner held in Stroudsburg on Feb. 2 which is his birthday. He was honored as the oldest member present and also for having been married the longest.

Mr. Serfass was also honored in July by the Lehigh Consortium of Allentown as one of the charter members still living.

An avid fisherman, he was one of the first men out on the first day of the fishing season and proudly brought home his limit of fish.

Mrs. Serfass is 84 years old and has always been active in many civic affairs and many organizations. This year she was able to attend many of their Christmas parties and banquets and took an active part in some of them.

Mr. and Mrs. Serfass are members of the Hamilton Lutheran Church.

They have five children: Harry of Stroudsburg; Willard, Russell, James Jr., and Kathryn Christian, all of Saylorsburg.

They have nine grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren.

They received many well wishes and flowers from friends even though there was no formal celebration of their anniversary.

Interviewed by the Saylorsburg reporter, they said that while 67 years may seem long looking ahead, it is very short looking back. They do a lot of reading and eagerly await the arrival of the Pocono Record each morning.

Hip problems on high side

If you take a deep breath—

BY BOBBY WESTBROOK

Family Fare Editor
Stroudsburg — It looks as though the new fuller, flaring skirts are going to hide a lot of hip problems, but if you take a deep breath to show off that tiny waist, you're liable to split out that much-heralded "small waist" that snuggles high and tight at the shoulders and ribcage."

That's what Mildred Sullivan, new director of the New York Couture Group now showing in New York, has announced.

Jean Sprain Wilson, AP Fashion Editor, put it this way: "Waistlines are as in as women can get them at this time. For two years the fat of the land hid behind tents and shapeless shifts, but now many women face a very tight squeeze as fashion returns to the little middle."

"Women have added two inches to their waistlines," lamented a spokesman for Mignon. "Our size ten has abandoned its old waist measurement of 25" for a more comfortable 27½."

Fashion, which James Laver, fashion historian, defined as "a matter of the shifting erogenous zone," alternately reveals and conceals various portions of the anatomy. Thinking positively, that means that eventually every woman gets a chance to show off her best feature.

Negatively, it also means that she has to suffer over her less-than-perfect measurements a lot of other times. Take legs. What the Monroe County woman of an age to recognize and an income to buy high fashion has been suffering through for the past few seasons has been a hard choice:

To show more of her legs than she's though becoming or sullable; or to look definitely dated and somewhat dowdy with longer skirts.

The new season's fashions seem to offer little relief in that respect. Jackie Kennedy's mid-calf, mid-length skirt notwithstanding. Instead fashion gives us something new to worry about. It isn't too evident on the Twiggy-topped models but may cause the normally-busted woman some concern.

Quoting from the designers: Nat Kaplan does coats that are "slim and thin with narrow shoulders and sleeves that are straight and narrow and fitted high under the arms."

Ben Reig: "Waistlines are rediscovered — Some marked in leather beltings, others sashed in self fabric . . . or sans belt, subtly accented via the silhouette which is cut closer to the body through the shoulders, bust and rib cage."

Of course, for daytime those areas around the rib cage may be concealed to some degree by the lingerie touches which frost everything as effectively as the January snows frost the Poconos. The woman with a trunkful of old collars and heirloom lace plus drawers-full of belts is going to be in luck in bringing last year's models up to date.

Hannah Troy bows to the lace and organza shirtwaist dresses with frilly ruffles which also cascade down the front and circle the collars or long-cuffed sleeves of feminine blouse tops."

Ronell accents a princess dress with "white lace-trimmed organza cuffs and dickey" or uses "fluted pleated handkerchief lined cuffs and collar on a pure silk navy A-line dress."

Eloise Styne has "many touches of the Gibson Girl and French Schoolgirl" with ruffled collars, Peter Pan collars and cuffs, ruching and run-through velvet ribbons."

Vincent Monte-Sano promises relief from tight waists. He has "a gentle silhouette achieving fit by implication alone" and claims that the clothes in his collection achieve "unity of structure through the use of the techniques of an architect."

Chuck Howard for Townsley doesn't mention ruching at all. He has gone to South America for his colors—like Inca orange or Lima green, with "keyhole necklines" or shaped "naked" dresses with wide straps over the shoulder.

As for Davidow, his coat still looks typically Davidow, with a new softness in both fabric and fashion.

As for the evening fashions, well, it looks as if those tight busts had split right down the middle.

However, it's hard to tell whether this is the season when the padded ba will go out of fashion and the woman who wore it comes into her own. We'll just have to reserve judgment until we see the real things.

But in mid-January they do look pretty and new, don't they?

A romantic "little dress" of white ribbon lace by Monte-Sano. The slashed neckline and cuffs are touched with ruffles, the molded waist belts home the new fashion. For a touch of whimsy, a matching parasol.

Imported Italian wool in Spring's navy and white check makes a slim coat for Davidow's collection. Bias cut tab at bodice punctuates hi-shaping. Worn underneath is a sheer wool crepe skimmer of navy. Hat by Emme.

A cutaway vest matching collar and cuffs tops off the full-skirted motion by Eloise Curtis from the David Styne collection. The fluid black crepe is flared, belted and bow-tied.

A slip of a dress in hi-horizon stripe by Chuck Howard for Townsley's Spring collection. The modified A-line skimmer achieves power with bias cut three-quarter belt, set high and small close-set sleeves for more body-conscious silhouette.

Ben Reig's "bridge" hemline makes a short, long evening gown. Of white ziberline, jewels margin the neckline and streak the front to the hem.

The deep V-plunge empire bodice is garlanded with a giant jewelled pin in this spill of midnight matte jersey. From Hannah Troy by Murray Nieman, it is cinched with a sash and then flows to a circular skirt that cascades to the floor.

Nervousness

Nervousness often is deep seated and seems to want to hold on.

If it continues long, other disorders appear. Very nervous people may have indigestion, rashes, headaches, chest pains or dizziness.

Most people overcome these symptoms with only temporary relief, only to have them re-appear. The basic cause of nervousness is that the nerve impulse flow, which must be free from pressure to perform 100% efficiency, is becoming obstructive and the parts to which the obstructed nerve impulseflow is going, becomes retarded. Often the bony segments of the spine create the obstruction when the spine is out of its proper proximity.

Democrats set election

BUSHKILL — The Middle Smithfield Democratic Club will conduct a meeting at Bushkill Manor, Route 208, near Bushkill for election of officers on Saturday, Jan. 13, 8 p.m.

Members of the Board of Governors and officers of the Pocono Chapter, American Institute of Banking, recently formalized plans for observing the American Institute of Banking Week. STROUDSBURG — Balm breezes rippled the clear blue, warm water in the scores of hotel swimming pools in Miami Beach, Fla., Sunday.

It sounded like a fairy tale for the residents of Monroe, Pike and Northampton Counties, except for the word, "balm."

Many persons undoubtedly thought the weatherman was "balm" when he said the area will be in store for some frigid temperatures, batted around the Pocono area by 40 to 50 mile per hour gusts which many a motorist interpreted as gales.

Sunday was definitely stay-home weather. Driving was hazardous as car heaters worked overtime to keep the windshield defrosted and maintain the body temperature of the motorist. The persons who stayed home had difficulty looking out their picture windows which had a thick coating of ice.

Many persons won't be able to start their car this morning, predicts the weatherman.

Judging from the dip in temperatures throughout Sunday, the prediction will probably be correct.

A cool 20 degrees lasted for several hours throughout the afternoon Sunday and with the setting of the sun, the temperatures took a nose dive.

From 20 degrees, the temperatures in some areas went to eight below, as in Mt. Pocono. Scutrum recorded a minus three and Skytop was tottering on the zero mark with the chance of dropping lower.

No matter where anyone was in the Poconos, however, it was a unanimous "cold."

The forecast today was a simple one from the weatherman at Avoca airport: VERY cold. The cold spell will continue throughout the day, as will the wind.

The weather forecast until Saturday will be much the same below normal. The daily highs will average from the 20's and overnight lows to five.

S - burg police have busy time

STROUDSBURG — Stroudsburg Borough Police had a busy weekend.

They investigated a two-car accident, a rug larceny, a broken window, and completed the investigation of a car stolen Dec. 6.

Sunday, police were notified by State Police in Toledo, Ohio, that the car owned by Sherman Ware of 384 Chestnut St., East Stroudsburg, had been recovered in that city. Ohio police said the car is in "apparent running condition."

Car moves steps, stove

STROUDSBURG — A car hit a house in Stroudsburg Sunday at 4 a.m. and knocked off the outside steps to a second floor apartment and moved the stove on the second floor. No injuries were reported.

Frank E. Miller, 20, of 729 Ann St., Stroudsburg, crashed into King's Tavern on W. Main St., after he failed to negotiate a curve in the highway. The accident occurred at the intersection of Pocono Park Dr. and Bridge Street, police said.

The force of the crash ripped away the outside steps that led to a second floor apartment and moved an electric stove in the apartment.

LWV's group will meet

STROUDSBURG — The League of Women Voters of the Stroudsburgs will conduct a Financial Committee meeting at the Beaver House, Wednesday at 2 p.m.

The car message came to Stroudsburg Police via a Pennsylvania State Police teletype message.

The car was stolen Dec. 6, 1967, from the parking lot at Pocono Foundry in Stroudsburg.

At 12:40 p.m. Sunday, Seymour Katz, owner of the American House, reported that a window in a door leading to the second floor of the building had been broken and a thermostat on the wall in the hall was torn loose.

Earlier, at 10:20 a.m., Mrs. Ann DeVore of 500 Main St., notified police that a rug was stolen from the hall outside her apartment.

She had purchased the rug Saturday and placed it in the hall. She said that was about midnight Sunday and she discovered it missing Sunday at 10:20 a.m.

A two-car accident occurred on Stroudsburg High School property and involved cars driven by James C. Meissner of 512 Fulmer Ave., Stroudsburg, and Thomas E. Garland of Stroudsburg R.D. 2.

Police estimate total damage at $125. There were no injuries.

Area's multiple amputee to get legs lost in war

By PETE GRADY

Pocono Record Reporter GILBERT — The doctors aren't sure. Barry Schaffer doesn't know. His family and friends are keeping their fingers crossed.

Wednesday, he will try on the artificial limbs, three of them, to make up for the two legs and an arm he lost in Vietnam.

"I have no idea whether it's going to work," Barry said Sunday after he had been given an American Legion gold life membership card at the West End Legion Post 927, Gilbert.

"The doctors at the Wilkes-Barre Veterans Hospital have never had a case like mine before," the 21-year-old Kunkletown RD 1 soldier said.

"Barry meant that the doctors usually have something to work with, either an amputated limb below or above the joint."

In Barry's case, the land mine which blew up his truck and killed the man on his right, left the doctors little choice in saving a workable part of Barry's legs and right arm.

Arlington Martin, Monroe County commissioner and main speaker at the post's "Barry L. Schaffer Day," stressed loyalty and patriotism and singled out Schaffer as surpassing these two qualities when he "sacrificed more than any other member of our county sacrificed."

Martin cited Schaffer's fine scholastic record at Pleasant Valley High School. "He was president of the band and known as the class charmer and was in several school plays," Martin said.

Third life pass Master of ceremonies, said Barry was the third member to possess a life membership in the post.

He spoke out on the news media giving so much publicity to the hippies and anti-war demonstrations and the four American sailors who jumped ship in Japan.

"Here's a boy that gave almost everything he had and did very little complaining," Ruddy said.

Theodore Foedisch, Pennsylvania State Commander of the American Legion, also blamed the news media for their lopsided coverage of the sensational, "the noisy few."

"Barry is among the 98 per cent of the rest of the American people who make up the basic strength of this country," Commander Foedisch said.

After the ceremonies Barry had a sandwich and some punch and talked about how he spends his days and about going down to Florida in a couple of weeks to visit his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Altomese, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Radio talking

He does a lot of talking on his two-way radio presented to him by the Mountain Laurel Radio Club, Lehighton and the Blue Mountain Radio Club, Wind Gap. "The radio reaches into New Jersey and New York," Barry said.

Barry said Wally Butz, Pleasant Valley High School principal, came up and saw him. Barry helps out delivering surplus food to the four area county high schools.

"Are you hungry, Harold?" Barry said to his six-year-old brother.

Intold, who sat next to his big brother, declined a sandwich and said, "No thank you."

Asked whether he had any pain, Barry said, "Only in the back. I had it broke in three places. When the weather gets nasty it acts up."

Commissioner Martin came over to Barry and said, "Next time we see you, you'll be dancing a jig."

Barry submitted to some more picture taking, this time with his father and commander Foedisch and another one with his father and the Rev. B. Paul Gernet, pastor of the Seventh-Day Adventist Churches in Stroudsburg and Easton.

Mrs. Edward Doney, wife of charter commander Doney, when asked how Barry will make out this Wednesday at the Veterans Hospital in Wilkes-Barre said, "That boy has so much determination. He'll make it. You wait and see."

Clark's aim good — again

SAIGON — Lt. Earland R. Clark, 29, formerly of Stroudsburg, participated in another air-strike on a storage complex 33 miles northeast of Thanh Hoa, North Vietnam.

The complex at the Yeu Ha trans-shipment point was spotted last Thursday by Lt. Clark, the Navy said, and Clark returned to the target with another pilot.

"There were seven large warehouses about 400 feet long nestled in the hollow of a rugged U-shaped mountain next to a river," Clark said.

"We rolled in and obliterated it. I dropped my 500-pound bombs and all hell broke loose. Secondary explosions started coming up and there was debris flying all over the place," he concluded.

Last Tuesday Clark, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Earland Clark of 584 Main St., Stroudsburg, knocked the camouflage off a North Vietnamese locomotive.

Resort aide dies from alcohol

EAST STROUDSBURG — Herman Kuhn, 58, an employee of Mt. Airy Lodge, Mount Pocono, died Saturday at 4:30 p.m. in the General Hospital of Monroe County of alcoholic poisoning.

Monroe County Coroner John C. P. Foelker said, after an autopsy, death was due to alcoholic poisoning and that some samples have been sent to a laboratory for additional study.

Kuhn was rushed to the hospital Friday night where a team of doctors and nurses worked on him.

A tracheotomy, an incision into the windpipe to permit breathing, was done on Kuhn by the medical team in the emergency ward.

Several fellow employees, who remain unidentified, said that Kuhn had drunk some "scot" of alcohol or "canned heat."

Cars crash near dairy

MINISINK HILLS — State Police from Stroudsburg investigated a two-car accident on Rt. 209 near Mosier's Dairy Bar. They reported no injuries and total damage of $80.

The drivers were Jerome J. Bullock, 21, of Wayne, and Gary Fish, 29, of East Stroudsburg R.D. 2.

According to police, Fish had stopped in the highway with his direction signal on, to make a turn into the milk store's parking lot and his car was struck by the Bullock vehicle, which could not stop in the icy highway.

Parolee held on violation

STROUDSBURG — Francis M. Forry, 19, of Stroudsburg R.D. 1, was committed to Monroe County Jail by state parole agents and charged with violating his parole terms.

Forry had been released from jail last month after serving a prison term for breaking into Anglemeyer's Garage in Tannersville.

Forry will appear before Judge Arlington Williams next week.

Warriors' grapplers and cagers extend winning streaks

Sophomores spark 22nd straight

By TED WISMER
Record Sports Editor

EAST STROUDSBURG — John Pitzer's "best match" of his life was the key bout Saturday as the East Stroudsburg State wrestling team extended its winning streak to 22 with a come-from-behind 20-11 victory over Oswego State of New York.

Pitzer (160) was one of four sophomores to come through in the clutch for coach Red Wittman, who saw his squad fall behind 11-0 after the first three bouts. Other sophs winning were Dan Rossi (152), Bob Devore (167) and heavyweight Rich Schumacher.

For the second straight dual meet the outcome was not decided until the final bout. And for the second time Schumacher came through in the clutch. This time he decked Jim Bovee in 6:32 to give ESSC its fifth dual meet victory of this campaign.

The partisan crowd of ESSC fans had little to cheer for through the first three bouts as the New York squad shot out to an 11-0 lead. The shocker of the afternoon came at 130-pound when Warrior co-captain Ned Bushong was pinned by burly sophomore John Waller at the 4:30 mark.

Waller was in complete control at all times as he scored a first period takedown and near-fall and had a 7-2 lead when he pinned Bushong with a cradle. For Bushong it

Senior win helped pride of South

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Dixie wound up winning only two of 11 holiday football games, but Tennessee's All-America center Bob Johnson says the South's victory in the Senior Bowl "did a lot to square things up."

Johnson, who led the blocking that paved the way for the South's 34-21 conquest of the North in the 19th annual Senior Bowl game Saturday, said his Dixie colleagues were determined to bolster the South's prestige.

"There was a definite feeling on our team that we wanted to do something about the South's poor showing in the all-star games and the bowl games," said Johnson, whose Tennessee team lost in the Orange Bowl to Oklahoma.

"The Senior Bowl is the biggest of them, and even if the Southeastern Conference went 1-4 in the bowl games like we did, I feel we made up a lot of lost ground by winning this one."

The South's victory offset the 50-6 triumph recorded by the North in the Hula Bowl a few hours later.

However, the only other triumph scored by the Deep South in 11 games against outsiders in all-star and bowl battles was Louisiana State's victory over Wyoming in the Sugar.

Despite those statistics, the South was an easy winner in the Senior Bowl battle, breaking out of a close 17-14 halftime edge and rolling to a 34-14 lead before the North scored its final touchdown.

Standout player of the game was Dennis Homan, Alabama's All-America end who grabbed a 17-yard touchdown pass from Florida State's Kim Hammond and set up three other touchdowns with pass catches and end-around runs.

Hammond, who also tossed a 12-yard touchdown pass to Tom Smiley of Lamar Tech, was named the game's most valuable player after he completed 11 of 19 passes for 176 yards.

The South got surprising running help from Tulane's Duhon, a quarterback who volunteered to play running back and collected 74 yards rushing and scored on runs of four and two yards.

The North, kept in contention the first half by the 10-12 passing of Paul Tescano of Wyoming, could not ignite an attack in the second half against the fierce rushing of Forest Blue of Auburn.

McKeon gets soccer post

NEW YORK — East Stroudsburg State soccer coach Dr. John McKeon is the new assistant secretary-treasurer of the National Soccer Coaches Association.

McKeon was elected Saturday as the group concluded a three-day meeting. Other officers named were Stu Pary, University of Akron, president; C. R. Cuchrane, Bowling Green, vice president; Mel Schmidt, Trenton State, second vice president; and Frank Nelson, Nyack, N. Y. High School, third vice president.

marked his first dual meet defeat of the season.

In the 123-pound test, Brian McCann had no trouble with ESSC's Steve Bryant as he scored a pair of first period takedowns and added a predicament and near-fall in the third period for a 13-1 decision.

Then at 137 Tom Diorio minute replacement for Jim Purdy who again failed to make weight. Freund, who gave away about seven pounds, was taken down three times and reversed once as he dropped a 13-4 decision.

Gerry McDonald then gave the ESSC fans their first chance to exercise their lungs as he posted an 8-4 decision over Lloyd Gerauld in one of the better bouts of the afternoon.

McDonald scored a takedown in each of the three periods and gained an escape in the second period for his points. Gerauld escaped four times.

At 152 pounds, Rossi gave the Warriors fans some anxious moments as he built up a 6-1 first period lead against John Manner. The latter narrowed the gap to 6-5 with two escapes and a takedown before Rossi took charge. Before the bout was over, Rossi added three takedowns, an escape and a predicament to post an 18-8 win and cut Oswego's lead to 11-0.

Pitzer, a last minute throw-in because of an injury to Dave Blatt, and Mike Vallone were scoreless through two periods.

In the second period, Pitzer rode Vallone the entire period. Then in the third Pitzer scored a quick reversal and a takedown and picked up two points for riding time.

Devore then put the Warriors on top as he scored an easy 7-3 win over Rick Smith. Devore, making his varsity debut, scored a first period takedown, a near-fall in the second and another takedown in the third for another key victory.

Co-captain Gary Cook could have clinched the win for the Warriors with a pin but had to settle for a 16-3 win over Don Narcisco, whose only thought was staying off his back. The only points Narcisco scored were "discard points" attempted to work for a pin.

Then in the unlimited class, Schumacher sent the crowd home happy as he pinned the smaller but quicker Bovee.

ESSC made it a clean sweep with a 28-10 victory over Stevens Trade in the freshmen meet.

The Warriors will hit the books this week and return to action Jan. 17 at Bloomsburg.

125 — McLean, U. defeated Bryant, U. (11-0).

Southwestern Louisiana on two years probation

NEW YORK (AP) — The University of Southwestern Louisiana was placed on two years probation Sunday by the National Collegiate Athletic Association for having permitted financial aid to three prospective basketball players.

The penalty imposed by the infractions committee, the basketball team was denied the right to participate in any post-season activity during the period.

The team currently is ranked No. 8 in the small college rankings and has an 8-3 record for the season.

Arthur Bergstrom, assistant executive director of the NCAA, said this was the only infractions announcement that would be made at the current convention of the nation's some 600 colleges.

The NCAA said that at the beginning of the 1966-67 college year, Southwestern Louisiana permitted an outside organization to pay the educational expenses of three student athletes to attend the school.

The athletes, only identified as basketball players, were not named.

The NCAA announcement added:

"In as much as university athletic personnel promised financial assistance to the three young men and such aid ultimately was provided, it is held that the student athletes involved were unaware that the assistance came from an outside source."

The NCAA said the recipients were not provided with a proper written statement describing the amount, duration, terms and conditions of the award.

Further, the NCAA statement said, the procedures followed in making these awards placed the university's department of athletics in administrative control of the financial assistance.

The two-year probation is effective Jan. 6. Prior to the expiration of the two-year period, the NCAA committee on infractions can review the athletic practices of the university.

Only the basketball team is involved in the probation.

Several infractions were cited in the formal statement.

The NCAA said that during the late summer of 1967 a representative of the university's athletic interests provided a prospective athlete with an unsecured loan so that the prospect could pay his air transportation to the university's campus for purposes of reporting for the preseason football practice, and eventual enrollment in the university.

Pa. without pro soccer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Professional soccer has made its exit from the Pennsylvania sports scene with the Philadelphia Spartans' announcement that they are quitting after one year of play.

The Spartans' decision Saturday to fold followed a recent announcement from Pittsburgh that officials of the Phantoms were closing shop.

Spartans president John J. Rooney said a loss of $500,000 last year prompted the vote to cease operations.

He said the action also was spurred by the merger of the National Professional Soccer League and the United American Soccer Association last week.

"To hold our franchise in the merged league," Rooney said, "we were required to put up $150,000 by Jan. 15. That might have been the determining factor in our decision."

Rooney said the Spartans asked for a year's leave of absence from the merged circuit—the North American Soccer League—and were turned down, "so we had to quit."

"What we needed more than anything else was time to get our operation here moving again."

versity.

Bergstrom said the football player did not stay at the university nor did he practice. While this was a violation, it was not considered severe enough to warrant a penalty.

Bergstrom also said that in the late summer and early fall of 1965 football coaches at the university recruited an athlete at another institution without first contacting the athletic director of that school and obtaining permission.

Also, beginning on or about Oct. 10, 1965, the head basketball coach at Southwestern Louisiana, with the knowledge and consent of the athletic director, conducted several practice sessions to evaluate the skills of certain athletes and determine the personnel of the 1967 basketball squad.

The university also permitted, according to the NCAA, an outside organization to pay the education expenses of a prospective athlete for the 1966 summer session.

The NCAA council took note that once the executive administration of the university became aware of the existence of the arrangements whereby the athletes received financial aid from outside sources, it ended the arrangements.

This apparently resulted in softening the penalty.

NFL players form labor union

HOLLYWOOD BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The National Football League Players' Association announced Sunday it will take formal action this week to register with the U. S. Department of Labor as a labor union.

Mike Pyle of the Chicago Bears, the association president, said pledges of support had been received from all 16 teams in the NFL.

The players' president said the 16 player representatives meeting in Hollywood Beach also have voted to reject efforts by the Teamsters Union to organize the players. Pyle said the association will represent the players in collective bargaining negotiations with the owners.

"The association will take a militant attitude to protect its members and undertake all appropriate action to see that the players' demands are met," Pyle said.

Pyle said Daniel S. Shulman, a Chicago labor attorney, has been retained as the players' chief negotiator and labor relations counsel.

ESSC swimmers post 1st win

EAST STROUDSBURG — Rick Peoples and John Smith established new school records Saturday night in leading the East Stroudsburg State swim team to a 66-37 win over New Paltz.

The Warriors took nine firsts enroute to their first win in two outings with Smith also taking the 200-yard individual

Billie Jean still best

PERTH, Australia (AP) — America's Billie Jean King showed Sunday she is still the world's top woman tennis player with a straight sets victory over arch-rival Margaret Smith Court in the final of the West Australian championships.

The match, billed as a little Wimbledon, attracted about 4,000 people, the biggest crowd of any state tennis final in Australia this season.

But the Australian newlywed never was in the game against the American housewife as Mrs. King won 6-2, 6-4. Mrs. Court was on a comeback trail after two years out of big tennis.

Jet aide quits

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Donaldson, defensive coach with the New York Jets of the American Football League for the past five seasons, resigned Tuesday to take a similar job with the Cincinnati Bengals of the AFL.

Interest in Playoff Bowl declines

Rams slaughter Browns, 30 to 6

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Roman Gabriel passed Los Angeles to a 17-point halftime lead Sunday and the Rams rolled on behind their "fearsome Foursome" front-line defense to a 30-6 victory over the Cleveland Browns in the Pro Playoff football game.

The tall Ram quarterback threw 21 yards to Bernie Casey and two yards to Billy Truax for touchdowns in the first and second periods. Bruce Gossett nailed field goals from 41 and 48 yards and booted two conversions to increase the margin to 20-0 in the third period.

Crowd drops

The game between runners-up in the National Football League conferences was played in bright sunshine and 80 degree temperature, 79 degrees warmer than when the Rams played their last game at Green Bay. But the attendance dropped off sharply to 37,102 from last year's 65,589.

Two factors probably accounted for the decline in interest. One was next Sunday's big attraction in the Orange Bowl—the Super Bowl game between Green Bay and Oakland. The other was the fact that Cleveland was slaughtered in its two earlier television appearances this season.

A Cleveland rushing attack which led the NFL never got going until the last quarter, when the Browns moved 81 yards to score on a two-yard run by Leroy Kelly, NFL rushing champion, who played out his option with Cleveland during the past season.

North romps 50 to 6 in Hula Bowl

HONOLULU (AP) — Quarterback Gary Beban, the Heisman Trophy winner from UCLA, must be hoping that when he turns pre huge Harry Gunner of Oregon State will wind up in the other league.

Beban has seen enough of Gunner for an entire football career. He picked the 6-5, 235-pound defensive end off his helmet most of the afternoon Saturday in the 22nd annual Hula Bowl game matching senior college all-stars from the North and South.

Results: North 50, South 6, in the most one-sided game in the 22-year history of the Hula Bowl.

During the regular season, Beban spent a similar afternoon with Gunner.

Results: A 16-16 tie, the first blotch on the UCLA record.

Gunner was named outstanding linemen of the all-star game, edging middle guard Wayne Meylan of Nebraska, who was too much for the South linemen to handle inside.

Fullback Larry Csonka of Syracuse was the unanimous press box pick as back of the game. He was the first ever to win all the votes in this game which has drawn 13 Heisman winners over the years.

Csonka was unstoppable when the game was in doubt and wound up with 119 yards on 20 carries.

Opening lead — jack of hearts.

Here is a remarkable hand. It was played many years ago in a New England tournament by Frank K. Perkins, celebrated Boston expert, who wound up as declarer in the highly optimistic contract of six spades.

If you examine all four hands, it seems impossible to make the slam, since South appears certain to lose a spade and a club, come what may.

But the fact is that Perkins made the slam, and, furthermore, the contract could not be stopped by any method of defense. Anyone who would like to take a crack at making the slam — even looking at all four hands — is welcome to the job, but please be warned that this is a tough nut to crack. Playing his most inspired game, Perkins cashed all his aces and kings to produce this five-card position:

If East discarded a club instead, declarer would ruff the heart in his hand and trump a club in dummy to score the remaining tricks.

A diamond discard would permit declarer to ruff the heart in his hand and cash the queen of diamonds to score the remaining tricks.

If East discarded a club instead, declarer would ruff the heart in his hand and trump a club in dummy to score the remaining tricks. Either way, there was no escape for East. A remarkable hand, indeed!

*In addition to their regular profits, Pocono Record newsboys earned $1,927.14 in sporting goods, games, toys, clothing, transistor radios, camping equipment and gifts for their parents completely free of charge. In 1967 outstanding newsboys were also guests of The Pocono Record on such fun-trips as Expo and Aquarama's theater of the sea. In 1968 newsboys will have opportunities to go deep sea fishing, have an all-expense paid weekend with their parents in New York City, be the honored guests at the first "Newsboy-of-the-Year Banquet and Party". It's fun to be a boy . . . but it's twice as much fun to be a Pocono Record Newsboy!

Your Horoscope

By Francis Drake

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Where you apply the brakes, they will hold. Some matters must necessarily run slowly. Don't overstep; you could damage your cause.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Brighter aspects than for Aries, but there are hidden snags, reminders with which to reckon carefully. No jumping at conclusions! Hear out all fully.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — If an erroneous idea or opinion is expressed, quickly detect it and root it out. A substantial day for well-organized plans.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Lunar influences suggest more engrossing and more serious concentration on good management. Keep things orderly, systematic, on your toes.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — There's more than one way to get it. If the one you have been employing is getting you nowhere, emphasize accuracy in occupational and/or business matters.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Something you feel appropos of, under your efforts. Think out your manner of going about things could be at fault. Display your wit under all circumstances.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — A business about optimism and trouble in recent days. A few changes, and more to come. They should be met realistically, for they will bring excellent interests.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — If things are not going as well as they should, do not let matters build. Be sure to get them back on the right track. A new offer may be worth looking into.

November 24 to December 23 (Sagittarius) — Accumulated knowledge must be actively applied to have the right idea. Do not actively conscientiously or effort will be wasted.

December 24 to January 20 (Capricorn) — This is a time for review to find out what details, hidden in the casual eye, to change a course that has come off on a tangent! Better to sure than sorry later.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Extremes, bickering may tempt you. Don't yield, but no matter who else does, don't shirk your own duty. A wrong idea, a wrong plan, a wrong one is disrupting your capability.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Be careful! If in for heavy work or discipline, remember, they must go on repeatedly, so manner and attitude must be strong. In easier moments, don't let guard down too easily.

YOU HORN TODAY are creative, active and delighted to meet new challenges. You get more out of life than many; excel where quick thinking and wit are needed; can acquire knowledge readily, and will strive for top accomplishment. You are early riser, even when resting you are dreaming up new schemes. Do not clear violence nor think you have it made. There are always new avenues. As is full of opportunities for the willing and alert. Turn your aggressive traits to useful purpose and no one can surpass the happy success of your day. Astrologist, painter.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 5. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. — J.B.

JACK O'BRIAN'S

Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — 1967 was the year in which Eddie Fisher and Connie Stevens parented a baby and nobody knew when or where they got married; or cared. The handsome (but not lately) old luxury train, the 20th Century Limited was knocked off by the N.Y. Central. The Queen Mary (our favorite Atlantic liner) packed it in. Richard Burton gave Liz Taylor a jet plane.

Bullfighter El Cordobes quit with $7,000.00 after only seven years of truth-moments. Pearl Bailey lit up the Broadway sky in the aging but (with Pearl May) still carbonated "Hello, Dolly!" and became the dark brown Toast of the Town. Carol Burnett had her second child, husband Joe Hamilton his 10th.

Paul (Golden Boy) Hornung of the pro gridiron quit football and got married. In reverse order...Great backball clown "Goose" Tatum died at 45...Bob Hope's son Tony, 27, film director (at 20th-Fox) wed Harvard law classmate Judith Richards, 26...Dr. Timothy Leary, L.S.D., 47, wed Rosemary Woodruff, 33, his assistant...Lynda Bird Johnson on New Year's Eve 1967 was with George Hamilton in Acapulco, New Year's Eve 1968 was with new husband Marine Capt. Chuck Robb in Washington...Old convicted Teamster Boss Dave Beck, 73, who took a healthful 30-month jail cure, came out enthusiastic enough to wed Helen Reynolds, 55, old friend of both Dave and his late wife...Secretary of State Dean Rusk's daughter married Negro reserve Margaret Elizabeth, 18, Army Lieut. Guy Gibson Smith, 22...Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., 69 (junior), author of a daily autobiographical column, and of 30 books, effervescent gentleman-reporter, was married (for the 7th time) to his secretary Mary Lou Bristol, 41.

Rich-beautiful-shapely-intelligent Dina Merrill (daughter of the late stockbroker E.F. Hutton and Mrs. Marjorie Merriweather Post, one of the world's richest and Post Toastiest women, or humans, wed gifted actor Cliff Robertson (PT-109 etc.)...Sybil Burton Christopher, Richard Burton reject who wed it happily thereafter with talented young actor-rock musician Jordan Christopher, presented him with his first daughter, her third.

"Happy" and N.Y. Gov. Nelson Rockefeller welcomed their 2nd son (her 6th, his 7th) ... After the public contributed some $750,000 to her after Lee Harvey Oswald shot her policeman-husband J.D. Tippit and made her a widow, Mrs. Marie Tippit married another policeman, Dallas Lieut. Harry Dean Thomas.

Vanessa Redgrave, 36, apprentice Garbo, divorced director Tony Richardson, 39, went right on happily making his movies...Ike's brother Edgar Eisenhower, 78, Tacoma lawyer, and his 3rd wife-former secretary Lucille Dawson were officially unhitched on grounds of a "burdensome home life" ...Greek King Constantine and Queen Anne-Marie became parents of an heir, had a miscarriage and fled their monarchy all in the same year.

Walt Disney's estate was estimated at $60 million...Its old movies-for-TV will bring that up sometime to considerably more than $1000 million...Sen. Everett Dirksen proved he's popular as the Beatles or Dean Martin when his first record album

Bangor files damage suit

BANGOR — The Bangor Water Co. has filed an action against a New Jersey contractor claiming $8,500 damages resulting from the installation of a sewer system in the borough in 1961 and 1962.

The water company action, filed against C&T Affiliates Inc., Collingswood, N.J., claims the contractor damaged water mains and failed to protect other pipes during freezing weather.

New rates on postage start today

EAST STROUDSBURG —

Postmaster Stewart E. Marsh of East Stroudsburg, Sunday night reminded mailers that new higher postage rates become effective today.

Other rates effective today, he noted, are: 10 cents an ounce for postal cards, and eight cents each for air postal cards.

"When you consider that six cents will carry a first-class letter addressed to any one of 200 million persons in 50 states, as well as letters addressed to any of 83 million persons in Mexico and Canada," Marsh added, "this still remains as one of the biggest bargains on earth."

The 20 per cent raise in first-class letter rates, effective today, is a smaller percentage raise than that imposed on other types of mail.

He pointed out that there has been a 24 per cent raise in the rates for mailing newspapers and magazines and a 34 per cent hike in the charges for advertising circulars, "occupant" mail and other bulk third-class items.

The new rate provisions also establish important rate changes for heavier first-class mail pieces, Marsh explained.

If the first-class mail piece weighs more than 13 ounces it will go automatically by the fastest transportation available — meaning air service usually.

"Heavier first-class pieces, above 13 ounces, will be merged with air parcel post under a single rate schedule," he said, "and all air mail above seven ounces also will be subject to the air parcel post rate schedule."

The postmaster assured local residents plenty of one-cent stamps are on hand for use with any existing stocks of five cent stamps they may have on hand.

There are also adequate supplies of six-cent stamps to meet the new first-class letter rate available at the post office.

The higher rates become effective today also for other categories of mail used primarily by large-volume mailers. These include bulk third-class advertising mail rates, special rates for books, films and records.

"The postoffice is working closely with commercial mailers to provide them with every possible assistance in complying with the technical provisions of these rate changes," Marsh noted.

Ann Landers

Mother, 76, starts over

Dear Ann Landers: I am a woman 76 years old. Last March my daughter-in-law had a heart attack and died suddenly. There were no children. When I went out for the funeral (1200 miles) my son begged me to stay and help him get over his heartache.

Ann, I have been here for 10 months. I am desperately homesick for my little apartment, my grandchildren and the life I used to lead. I do not like this climate and I work from morning till night — washing, ironing, cooking and cleaning. His day lady quit when I moved in and he has not tried to replace her.

I have told my son three times that I want to go home but each time he sits down and cries like a baby and says I can't leave him. I have offered to keep house for him if he will come back West, but he says a man 55 years old can't start over.

Please tell me what to do. I don't want to add to this boy's problems. Lord knows he has had enough.

LONESOME MOTHER

Dear Mother: This "boy" is 55 years old and it's time he grew up. My advice is to pack your bags and leave. Your son will get along just fine without you — perhaps better. A woman 76 years of age is entitled to spend her remaining years in her own home, not as a drafted servant for a 55-year-old crybaby.

Dear Ann Landers: We hope you will not consider this letter too indelicate to print, because we need help.

A very nice man works in our office. He keeps to himself a lot — the quiet type. Nobody has ever had any trouble with him. Now it seems he is having some dental problems. For the past week he has been removing his partial plate during office hours (usually after lunch) and he just leaves it on his desk. The sight of those teeth on his desk is enough to make a person want to change jobs.

We don't wish to offend the gentleman, yet we don't feel he has the right to spoil a person's day. Do you believe an anonymous note might be the answer?

TOO MUCH REALISM

Dear Too Much: The poor guy needs to go back to the dentist and get his choppers adjusted. In the meantime, I see nothing wrong in telling him in plain language that the sight of his teeth on the desk is unappetizing, to say the least, and if he can't keep them in his head, would he please put them in the drawer.

Dear Ann Landers: Your acid comment, "Allmomy is the high cost of leaving" has a nice ring to it but it indicates that you have no sympathy whatever for the victims of cruel and punishing ex-wives.

My husband is one of those unfortunate people who is impaled on the alimony dagger. For him, at least, the price of leaving was a great deal higher than it should have been.

If you have a shred of decency you will print this letter and admit there is another side to the picture, but then you could not possibly say a good word for a divorced man or you'd be thrown out of the Catholic Church.

MRS. D.

Dear Mrs.: Throwing me out of the Catholic Church would be the neatest trick of any week since I am not in it.

Here is your letter, however, and it's a good one. There is indeed something to be said on the other side and I'm happy to give you equal time.
